

THE WEATHER

Washington, Dec. 15.—Fair tonight and Tuesday; continued cold.

TEMPERATURE AT EACH HOUR
8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5
28	22	25	25	25	25	25	25	25	25

VOL. VI.—NO. 79

Entered as Second-Class Matter at the Postoffice at Philadelphia, Pa. Under the Act of March 3, 1879.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1919

Published Daily Except Sunday. Subscription Price $5 a Year by Mail. Copyright, 1919, by Public Ledger Company.

PRICE TWO CENTS

WAR-THEORY LAW INVALID, SUPREME COURT RULES

Mrs. Blake, Woman Accused of Hurling Mute Son Into Sea, Is Going Mad, Doctors Say

MOTHER'S REASON EBBS FAST AS SHE SHOUTS INNOCENCE

Hospital Authorities Indicate She Is Suffering From Effect of Drugs

Body of Drowned Boy Washed Up on Beach

Father, Heart-Broken, Comes to Philadelphia—May Be Seeking Counsel

DROWNED BOY, HIS MOTHER AND SISTER

At the left is Mrs. Esther Miller Blake, who is under arrest in Atlantic City, charged with casting her four-year-old son, James Blake, Jr., into the ocean. The above picture was taken last summer at Ventnor. In the center is "Bunny" Blake, the drowned boy. At the right is Mrs. Blake's little daughter, Esther.

From a Staff Correspondent

Atlantic City, Dec. 15.—Accused of having cast her little son into the sea as a sacrificial offering in the mad hope her act would reunite her with her husband, Mrs. Esther Miller Blake is today wildly upon her nerves in the Atlantic City Hospital, battling to retain the shred of reason that remains to her.

"Before God I did not murder my boy," she moans. Her reason rapidly going, say the doctors, so a nurse sits quietly by the bedside watching her.

As she is under arrest charged with the murder, a policeman also sits by her, turning nearly away as the woman frantically reiterates her cry that no mother would kill her own son.

The woman is suffering from the effect of drugs, the doctors say.

"Bunny" came between my husband and me, but before God I did not murder my own son," Mrs. Blake insists. "He was kidnapped."

Mother Tells Kidnapping Story

Little James Blake, or "Bunny," as his family called him, was four years old. He vanished Friday. His mother declared that two negroes had held her up in Ventnor and kidnapped him. Yesterday the lad's body was washed ashore at Ventnor.

Mrs. Blake is the wife of James Blake, Sr., an insurance broker with offices in the Commonwealth Trust Building, Philadelphia.

"The only thing that can save my wife now," said Mr. Blake quietly, "is a plea of insanity."

Mrs. Blake left the shore today, supposedly to go to Philadelphia. It is rumored that his purpose may be to engage counsel to defend his wife. It is said the tragedy really has brought the couple together again, after three long months of separation.

"Mrs. Blake is now in and has been mentally defective," said Dr. Louis Souder, coroner's physician, this afternoon. "Only recently symptoms developed which would have led her to destroy her child. She still, however, sticks to her story."

"She was a nervous invalid before the boy's birth and afterward, and has not fully recovered yet. I am investigating the case upon the theory that she committed the act of which she is accused upon a sudden impulse."

"I don't want to bother you now," Chief of Police Hoadley said yesterday, told Mrs. Blake yesterday after he read the warrant for her arrest as she sat propped up in bed in the hospital, "but this matter over and tell me the truth when I come the next time."

The body of the child was found yesterday floating in the sea.

"When you come back tomorrow you will get the same story I told yesterday and Friday night when two negroes beat me and stole my child and pocketbook. That story is the truth," Mrs. Blake replied.

The detectives have a theory now that Mrs. Blake walked all the way to Ventnor from Atlantic City with "Bunny" on Friday after having visited her physician on Pacific avenue.

Question Jitney Men

Every jitney man and trolley car driver in Atlantic City has been questioned, and none recalls having carried him on their vehicles. A search is now being made for any one who might have seen a boy on Friday and detective it is argued that she is a woman of striking appearance, and any one having met her walking about in the storm would have remembered the incident.

The place where the body was recovered is about two blocks from the Ventnor casino and pier, where the pocketbook was found. A detective reported stolen by two negroes who she also says kidnapped the boy, was found Saturday morning with the contents untouched.

The discovery of the body bore out the theory of the police after the pocketbook was found. So certain were they that the woman had done away with her son that on Saturday night Chief Sprague went to her home at 231 Oriental avenue and accused her of the crime.

She was under the care of a physician at the time having suffered a nervous breakdown after "Bunny" disappeared, but she denied the charge.

Chief Sprague ordered that every available patrol car and detective be placed as a beach patrol to look for the body, so confident was he that his theory was correct.

End Ceaseless Vigil

Ceaseless vigil by the coast guards had not availed. Patiently they had scanned the waters, looking seaward, but finding nothing.

Then fate took a hand. Samuel Blair left his home at 41 Essex avenue, Marine City, about 1 o'clock yesterday morning and braving the driving rain and wind, went for a stroll along the Boardwalk.

Blair saw a tiny bundle rolled about in the heavy surf, washing shoreward, now drawn out again by the undertow.

Continued on Page Two, Column Two

JEWELER FIGHTS ALLEGED ROBBER

Third Attempt to Hold Up Place of Louis Hass, North Tenth Street, Is Disastrous

MAN HELD AFTER CHASE

George Donnelly, Twelfth street near Thompson, tried to hold up Louis Hass in his jewelry store at 1439 North Tenth street today, it is alleged.

Hass was working behind the counter when Donnelly entered the store. Donnelly, it is charged, shoved a revolver into Hass's stomach and told him to hold up his hands.

But Hass's store was robbed of $500 a month ago, and his front window was smashed in two weeks ago, and the intruder made him real angry. He leaped over the counter and grappled with Donnelly.

They threw each other around and did more damage to the store than the proverbial bull in a china shop.

Hass sank his teeth in Donnelly's left hand and lunged on. He tried to force him over toward the safe, where he had his own gun, but he failed. He managed to roll the two of them over to a bucket of ice-cold water standing underneath the cooler.

Near enough, Hass freed one hand and rushed into the store, where he succeeded in extricating himself from the bucket. He hurled it at Hass's rescuers and ran from the store.

Mrs. Julia Young, who lives upstairs, heard the noise of the fight and rushed down the back way to the corner saloon for some help. After the robbery of a month ago, she told Hass she would help him in the future if she had a gun. He bought her one.

Mrs. Young showed this gun into the hands of one of those who entered the store from the rear as Donnelly was leaving from the front entrance. The man with the gun fired, and shattered the glass transom over the door.

At Tenth and Jefferson streets, he met Albert Sarber, superintendent of the public baths at Eleventh street and Girard avenue. When Sarber saw Donnelly, he rushed into the store and, drawing from his hand, he decided to try to catch him. He hit him with the head with a garbage can, but Donnelly kept going.

At Eleventh and Master streets, Donnelly ran into O'Donnell and Crooks, of the Eighth and Master streets station. They arrested him and he will have a hearing today.

Donnelly, when he was searched, carried a lot of ammunition in his pockets, the police say.

IRISH BILL TO BE DELAYED

Won't Be Introduced in Present Parliament, Says Lloyd George

London, Dec. 15.—(By A. P.)—Premier Lloyd George announced today that the House of Commons this afternoon that no Irish bill would be introduced at this session of Parliament. He promised a statement on Monday next giving an outline of the measure.

Replying to a question of William Wedgwood Benn, Liberal, as to whether the government intended to continue military repression of Ireland until next year, the premier, amid cheers, said it was the intention of the government to maintain law and order.

IDEAL WINTER ARRIVES

Clear, Crisp Cold Proves Boon to Holiday Shoppers

Ideal winter weather prevails today. After alternating between 22 and 23 degrees, the mercury started to climb toward noon, possibly to make it a little more comfortable for the Christmas shoppers.

The temperature was 30 at 1 o'clock, with indications of going still higher. We must not be too optimistic, however, the weather man says, as the mercury will settle down to about 25 tonight.

Fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

$2.15 TAX RATE AND $54,000,000 BUDGET APPROVED BY MAYOR

Smith Signs Bills, Which Sanction Third Increase in Toll Since He Took Office

Mayor Smith this morning signed both the bills making the 1920 city tax rate $2.15 and the budget apportioning the $54,000,000 revenue which will accrue from this and other sources.

With seventy cents added for schools, Philadelphians will now pay taxes at the rate of $2.85, the highest in the history of the city.

This is the third rise in rate since Mayor Smith took office. When he was inaugurated the city rate was $1. The following year it was increased to $1.25 and in 1918 to $1.75. The old educational rate was fifty cents.

In signing the tax ordinance Mayor Smith said he felt the new rate should be ample for all the needs of the Moore administration.

The signing of the budget by Mayor Smith assumes the carrying out of Council's bonus plans for city employees.

SWAPS BOOZE FOR ART GEM

Rare Tapestry Cost Saloonkeeper One Quart of Whisky

Pittsburgh, Dec. 15.—The back room of Fritz Ueberle's North Side saloon may hold a fortune which was purchased for a quart of whisky five years ago.

The fortune is in the form of a fourteen-foot art panel believed to be the work of Jean Honore Fragonard, for whose panels both Henry C. Frick and J. P. Morgan paid fortunes and some of which now hang in Frick's Fifth Avenue mansion, bequeathed to the city of New York.

Professor F. Savage, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, has pronounced it the work of Fragonard. The panel is called the "Campagna Bagry." In one corner the name of Fragonard is woven into the tapestry.

WHERE WERE ROBBERS?

Whole "Army" in Search—But No One in Jewelry Shop

There were two cops, two detectives, two night watchmen and one passer-by, yet they failed to catch one burglar.

It happened this morning.

Two detectives, disguised as citizens, drew two long revolvers of the William Hart type and groped their way up the rickety stairway of a jewelry shop. It was on Chestnut street near Eighth.

The passer-by saw the two sleuths. Not knowing the difference between a detective and a burglar he told the two cops. They were re-entered by the night watchman as a matter of precaution. And so the armed forces of the law crowded the building. After much prediction, prober and forecasting one thing was decided upon unanimously by the invaders and that was:

The front door of the shop had been left open.

HORSE HURT, WAGON BROKE

Vare Truck Runs Into Backing Vehicle at Broad and McKean

A Vare truck ran into a bakery wagon of M. Romanoff, of Fifth and Reed streets, at Broad and McKean streets this afternoon. The horse was severely injured, and the wagon smashed. The truck was uninjured.

Following the collision the steering gear of the truck locked, and it ran up on the pavement. James Mooney, driver of the truck, was arrested and held under $400 bail by Magistrate Baker for a further hearing, next Monday.

FIRE IN APARTMENT

Fire in the apartment of Captain Edward Ziegler, a naval officer, on the third floor of the building at 2323 Germantown avenue this morning caused $2000 damage to the furnishings and property. The blaze is believed to have originated in a defective flue. Mrs. Ziegler was absent at the time. The fire of Bell Brothers, tea and coffee dealers, which occupies the first and second floors of the building, sustained no damage.

CONGRESS BATTLE IN THIRD WATCHED

All Eyes on District in Picking of Candidate to Succeed J. Hampton Moore

WILL BIG MAN BE CHOSEN?

By GEORGE NOX MCCAIN

"The Battle of the Third" is the next great struggle ahead in Philadelphia's post-war politics. There is to be neither asking of nor giving of quarters.

While Senator Edwin H. Vane has not publicly espoused the cause of any one of the three congressional candidates, who, cap in hand, stand awaiting his good pleasure, it is equally a fact that no candidate has been considered by the opposition; and there is to be no unseemly hurry in the final selection.

Whoever may be the choice of the Moore Republican leaders, one thing is certain, he will be a representative citizen who will not only adequately represent the district but who will be in intimate touch with its great industrial and mercantile interests. Preferably he will be a manufacturer; a business and not a political congressman.

Philadelphia has suffered at intervals for years from an overplus of political congressmen. Not all are of that character, to be sure, in one or two instances they have been of great value to the district. But the great majority of congressmen who would have been greatly out of place even in the back row on the left-hand side of the House at Harborside, are of the latter class.

Philadelphia needs to learn that the thing to do is to send a big man to Congress and keep him there.

Planned Attack on Moore

J. Hampton Moore is an example of such a system. His long service and ability made him the most valuable asset of the Philadelphia delegation. Yet with this fact staring the politicians in the face, Moore was marked for slaughter two years ago. At the eleventh hour the leaders, those who opposed him, had an attack of political chills and removed Sam Sals, their experimental candidate, from the race. If Mr. Moore had failed in the majority contest this fall, even the dillettante in politics knew his termery for presuming to be a candidate against cost him his congressional office as representative from the Third if it could be worked.

A part of the general scheme of a new deal in Philadelphia Republican politics involves the election of a congressman in Mr. Moore's place who will, minus the mayor-elect's years of experience at Washington, rise up to him in point of ability. Also in the power to command the highest respect and confidence of his conferees in Congress. A ward politician cannot do this.

The Third Congressional district is worthy of such representation. It is one of the greatest manufacturing centers in the United States.

The man who represents the Third district represents the port of Philadelphia. Its waterline along the Delaware is nearly the port of entry for our international commerce, but it is the harbor for the coastwise traffic coming to our threshold.

The new director of Wharves, Docks, Ferries, George F. Sproule, as secretary of the board of navigation commission, imparted through the columns of the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER last August the impressive fact that Philadelphia is the second port of importance in the United States. It is ahead of Liverpool in the volume of its maritime business.

Port Has Forged Ahead

The port of Philadelphia has forged forward with Broodinging leaps in the last thirty years. The business of the harbor could now be handled by the tenth number of ships. Where a cargo of 1000 tons of sugar then was the exception, a 10,000-ton cargo is now of the commonplace.

The Third district's approximate pre-war industrial output was valued at more than $400,000,000, based on available figures.

Continued on Page Two, Column One

Planned Attack on Moore

On the one side the Republicans are arguing that the only removable and uncompromising party in the controversy all along has been the President. Every one else, they say with a certain degree of spontaneity, has been a party toward fixing responsibility for killing the treaty rather than working out an agreement upon the treaty.

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

Planned Attack on Moore

On the one side the Republicans are arguing that the only removable and uncompromising party in the controversy all along has been the President. Every one else, they say with a certain degree of spontaneity, has been a party toward fixing responsibility for killing the treaty rather than working out an agreement upon the treaty.

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

Planned Attack on Moore

On the one side the Republicans are arguing that the only removable and uncompromising party in the controversy all along has been the President. Every one else, they say with a certain degree of spontaneity, has been a party toward fixing responsibility for killing the treaty rather than working out an agreement upon the treaty.

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

TREATY DEADLOCK IS INTENSIFIED BY PRESIDENT'S STAND

Demand of Business for Relief, However, May Force Senate Compromise

UTTERANCES OF WILSON BRING "REVOLT" IN PARTY

Delay Would Mean Carrying of League Issue Into Political Campaign

By CLINTON W. GILBERT

Washington, Dec. 15.—The purpose of the President's latest statement upon the treaty is political. The aim is to place upon the Republicans responsibility for the failure of the peace and the dangerous financial conditions which are beginning to make the business world anxious.

The White House statement follows: "It was learned from the highest authority at the executive office today that the President has decided to announce to the Senate that the President would presently make some move which will relieve the situation with regard to the treaty. It is entirely his own choice. He has no compromise or concessions of any kind in mind, but intends so far as he is concerned that the Republican leaders of the Senate shall continue to bear the undivided responsibility for the fate of the treaty and the present condition of the world in consequence of that fate."

The statement is the President's own. Unlike most of the utterances of the White House since the President's illness began, this one is reported to have been dictated by Mr. Wilson himself. So far as can be learned it was not made upon any one's advice. It was a proposal of nothing in particular. It surprised the President's followers in the Senate, although some of them had had intimation of it for the last few days.

What had been predicted before Christmas was the re-issuance of the treaty by the President. This prediction had been made almost officially. But the President has chosen to make it rather technical ground that the treaty is still before the Senate and that responsibility for action upon it lies with the Republican leaders.

McCall Blames Republicans

Along with the President's statement comes the utterance of ex-Governor McCall, of Massachusetts, addressed to Senator Lenroot, Governor of Wisconsin, at the industrial conference here. He is utterly disliked by Senator Lodge and only less so by the Republicans generally.

Mr. McCall seeks to fasten responsibility for the defeat of the treaty solely upon the Republicans. The two statements will not aid to the good humor or spirit of compromise among the Republicans in the Senate.

In spite of a desire to compromise which exists in the ranks of both parties in the Senate, the deadlock has been intensified by the President's latest utterance.

On the other hand, the President is contending that the Republican party is solely responsible for the defeat of the treaty. The question of who killed the treaty promises to be as enduring as the question "Who killed cock robin?" But everything now tends toward fixing responsibility for killing the treaty rather than working out an agreement upon the treaty.

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

Business Men Urge Action

Against the long delay involved in making the treaty an issue in the next campaign the financial section is operating. A very definite drive on the part of business for the ratification of the treaty can be seen today. This move, probably is not organized. It is probably a spontaneous movement of business men anxious to get out of the situation with respect to foreign exchange.

Business men are deeply concerned. Today they are urging the adoption of the treaty are totally different in character from those they received a month ago. A little while ago college professors,

$300 Spent in Wild Time; Boy Gives Budget to Court

An Itemized Account of Escapade of 3 Youths Is Submitted to Recorder in Camden

Demand of Business for Relief, However, May Force Senate Compromise

Utterances of Wilson Bring "Revolt" in Party

By CLINTON W. GILBERT

Camden, Dec. 15.—An account of the escapade of three youths, one of whom had purloined $300 in cash and one $50 Liberty Bond from his father, filed with the recorder an itemized statement of expenditures.

All moneys expended by the trio was accounted for except that which went for food, and the boys explained that they ate so much and often that nothing short of an adding machine could have kept track of the "costs."

The boys are Valentine Szobakowski, fourteen years old, of 1127 Mount Ephraim avenue, Louis Woodkovich, fifteen years old, of 911 Mt. Vernon street, and Alexander Zebrowski, fifteen years old, of 1019 Liberty street, all of Camden. They were arraigned before Recorder Stackhouse in Camden this morning on the charge of theft.

Martin Crampel, twenty-two years old, of 1016 South Tenth street, Camden, was also arraigned charged with receiving money known to him to have been stolen.

Valentine was the financier of the three adventures. It was he, it is said, who took the money and went forth with his companions to see life.

The boys had been arrested last Thursday, Valentine in New York and the other two in Broad Street Station.

GALE HAMPERS EFFORTS TO FLOAT THREE SHIPS

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Dec. 15.—A northwest gale today hampered efforts to float three coal-laden steamships which were tossed ashore by the storm in Vineyard Sound yesterday. The ships were bound from Norfolk to Boston.

U. S. VINES AID FRENCH WINE GROWERS

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Experiments made by Professor Daniel, of Rennes University, in a vineyard near Rennes in planting hybrid vines, obtained by grafting American vines on the native, are responsible for the hope of the re-establishment of viticulture in Brittany. Grape culture was ended there forty years ago by plant lice.

AMERICAN RANCHER RELEASED BY VILLA

Brigand Yields Captive Without Ransom as U. S. Takes Action

By the Associated Press

Eagle Pass, Tex., Dec. 15.—Fred G. Hugo, of El Paso, manager of the J. M. Dobie ranch, near Muzquiz, Mex., has been released by the Villistas who had held him for $10,000 ransom, according to advices received here today.

No ransom was paid.

Information of Hugo's release was contained in a telegram received by the Carranza garrison at Piedras Negras from General Alfredo Ricard, command.

Several wealthy Mexicans, including Hugo, in an endeavor to get out of Muzquiz and held for $5000 ransom, also were released without payment of any money, the telegram stated. Hugo, Mexican consul here, made public the telegram.

Washington, Dec. 15.—(By A. P.)—Before leaving Hugo released the State Department today directed the American embassy at Mexico City to make representations on the subject to the Mexican Government.

The embassy and the American consul at Eagle Pass were instructed to make an independent investigation of the incident and also to investigate reports that the Villistas carried off another American named Phillips.

The State Department said:

"Two American citizens, Frederick Hugo, manager of the hacienda Las Rucias, near Muzquiz, in Coahuila, and also an employee of that hacienda, were reported to be held by Villistas for ransom, according to dispatches received by the Department of State. Hugo is said to be held for ransom of 10,000 pesos.

"The Department of State has taken steps with a view to action by the Mexican federal authorities for the release of the prisoners.

"A dispatch to the department says that refugees report that Villistas evacuated Muzquiz December 12, and under the personal command of Francisco Villa left for the Palomas mountains, stating that they would await the arrival of the ransom money at the hacienda Manchos in the mountains of Rincon, near the Chihuahua line. Muzquiz was ransacked and almost everything movable, including horses and mules, was taken from the American-owned ranches at Mariposa and Las Rucias.

"A number of reputedly wealthy Mexicans are said to have been carried off. Mexican federal forces, under General Ricard and Peralt, entered Muzquiz after the Villistas evacuated."

2 WOMEN SHOT AND KILLED

Daughter of One Critically Injured in Family Row

Jeannette, Pa., Dec. 15.—(By A. P.)—Mrs. Anna Sara and one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Sylvester, were shot and killed today and another daughter, Lena Sara, was probably fatally wounded, at Hyde Park, near here. State police are seeking Sylvester in connection with the crime.

The authorities explained that Mrs. Sylvester, who had been living with her husband, recently went to reside at her mother's home. Sylvester appeared at the house today, the police said, and during the quarrel which followed, Mrs. Sara was killed first.

Mrs. Sylvester was next shot down, and Miss Sara was wounded in the back while trying to escape.

LLOYD GEORGE WARNS REDS

Must End Civil War Before Seeking Peace With Britain

London, Dec. 15.—(By A. P.)—Premier Lloyd George explained to the House of Commons today the refusal of James O'Grady, British representative at Copenhagen, to receive peace proposals from M. Litvinoff, the Russian soviet representative.

The premier said that if the Bolsheviks wanted peace they must first make peace with the people with whom they were warring—General Denikin, Admiral Kolchak and others.

WALL STREET REFLECTS DECISION OF SUPREME COURT

New York, Dec. 15.—(By A. P.)—Wild trading in the United States Food Products Co., which has large stores of liquor on hand, followed receipt in Wall Street of the news that the United States Supreme Court had declared wartime prohibition constitutional. The stock, which had been selling a few minutes before at 78 to 81, immediately dropped to 73.

United States Industrial Alcohol was also severely affected, losing about 10 points. The general list was moderately unsettled.

NATION WILL STAY DRY; APPEALS OF WETS REJECTED

Congress Still Has War Powers, Highest U. S. Court Unanimously Finds

DECISION ON BEER CASES EXPECTED NEXT MONDAY

Constitutional Amendment Suspersedes State Laws, Brandeis Announces

By the Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 15.—Wartime prohibition was held constitutional today by the Supreme Court in a unanimous decision. Thus vanished the hopes of many for a wet holiday.

No decision was rendered on the cases involving the constitutionality of the Volstead law, the prohibition enforcement act framed to carry out the intent of the prohibition amendment to the constitution.

In passing, however, Associate Justice Brandeis, who read the decision, did hold that the prohibition amendment was binding on the states as well as the federal government.

War Powers Still in Effect

The court entirely reversed the contention of the wets that wartime prohibition was outside the wartime powers of Congress and pointed out that wartime control of food and railroads still were in effect.

The decision added one of the final milestones to the long fight to make the country dry.

The court will render opinions again next Monday at which time the beer cases are expected to be decided, after which the court will recess until January 5. The prohibition constitutional amendment will become effective January 1.

Upon the court's decision on the prohibition enforcement law will depend whether the federal government has at hand any legal means for making the amendment effective.

Will Keep Country Dry

The constitutionality of war-time prohibition, however, the dries are confident, will keep the country dry until the amendment is carried into effect by law of Congress.

The decision of the court today was made on appeals from Kentucky and New York.

Discusses Kentucky Injunction

In deciding the war-time prohibition question the Supreme Court also dissolved injunctions restraining revenue officials from interfering with the removal from bond of about 70,000,000 gallons of whisky valued at approximately $75,000,000 held by the Kentucky Distillers and Warehouse Co., of Louisville.

Federal court decrees in New York dismissing proceedings brought by Dry-foots, Blum & Co. to compel internal revenue officials to issue warrants for the seizure from bond of whisky for beverage purposes were affirmed by the court.

Justice Brandeis said the government did not appropriate the liquor by stopping its domestic sale, as the way was left open for exporting it.

Justice Brandeis said there was no basis for the contention that President Wilson's statement in his message vetoing the prohibition enforcement act that the war had come to an end was a proclamation announcing the termination of the war.

Text of Decision

Justice Brandeis' decision in part follows:

"The war power of the United States, like its other powers and like the police power of the states, is subject to applicable constitutional limitations; but the fifth amendment imposes in this respect no greater limitation upon the national power than does the fourth amendment upon state power.

"If the nature and conditions of a restriction upon the use or disposition of property is such that a state could, under the police power, impose it consistently with the fourth amendment without making compensation, then the United States may for a permitted purpose impose a like restriction consistently with the fifth amendment without making compensation; for prohibition of the liquor traffic is conceded to be an appropriate means of increasing our war efficiency.

"But no reason appears why a state statute, which postponed its effective date long enough to enable those engaged in the business to dispose of stocks on hand at the date of its enactment, should be obnoxious to the fourth amendment; or why such a federal law should be obnoxious to the fifth amendment.

Property Not Seized

"We cannot say that seven months and nine days was not a reasonable time for the disposal of stocks."

Continued on Page Two, Column Three

WET STOCKS FALL QUICKLY

Wall Street Reflects Decision of Supreme Court

New York, Dec. 15.—(By A. P.)—Wild trading in the United States Food Products Co., which has large stores of liquor on hand, followed receipt in Wall Street of the news that the United States Supreme Court had declared wartime prohibition constitutional. The stock, which had been selling a few minutes before at 78 to 81, immediately dropped to 73.

United States Industrial Alcohol was also severely affected, losing about 10 points. The general list was moderately unsettled.

The Weatherman

Forecast:
Tonight: Fair to clear; light breeze from west.
Monday: Clear and bright.
Tuesday: Clear and bright.
Wednesday: Clear and bright.
Thursday: Clear and bright.
Friday: Clear and bright.
Saturday: Clear and bright.
Sunday: Clear and bright.

Nearby Temperatures

Early This Morning

Leakdown	18
Lansdown	17
Narberth	17
Paoli	14
Tacony	17
Germantown	17
Bala	18